

the promise is made up of five foundations

including

people

The children Scotland cares for must be supported to develop relationships: with people in the workforce, and those in the wider community.

And these people must also be supported: to listen, and to be compassionate in their care and decision-making.

Find out more at thepromise.scot

